THE LAURIER RECEPTION.

The Hon. Wilfrid Laurier arrived at Edmonton on Thursday night accompanied by W. Gibson, M. P. for Lincoln, Mr. Fisher, ex-M. P. for Brome, Quebec, Jas. Sutherland, liberal whip in the house of commons and member for Oxford, Mr. Hyman, London, Ont., Mr. Fraser, M.P. for Guysboro, N. S., Mr. Choquette, M. P., and others.

Mr. Laurier and party were met at the station by M. McCauley, Mayor of Edmonton and A. Prince, M. L. A., who conducted them to this side of the river where they were met by the citizen's band and on stepping out of their carriages, were introduced to the committees that had been appointed to receive them. At the brow of the hill addresses of welcome were read from the town and from the French Canadians of the district, the first being read by A. G. Randall, town clerk and the other by Antonio Prince.

In response to the town address, the Hon. gentleman said, I receive with great pleasure the address of welcome you have just handed me and accept it in the same spirit that it is tendered. I come here as a member of a political party; but I feel assured that in your town council you have men differing in politics, and accept this as a Canadian. A Canadian I am, first, last and all the time; and I take pleasure in being received as a Canadian. I have often heard of the great Northwest; but seeing and hearing are two very different things. To-night, I stand on the banks of the Saskatchewan for the first time in my life and may say that it is not given to any part of the world to make a more prosperous country than is given here. Your timber, your soil, your coal and this mighty river are yours to utilize. I feel more proud of my country the more I see of it. Again he expressed his profound gratitude for the welcoming address tendered and after receiving a bouquet of flowers from little Miss Duplessis and kissing the donor, he put on his hat. Mr. Prince then read an address in French which was likewise responded to in French, after which the Citizen's band formed in line at the head of the procession and the party marched direct to the skating rink which had been fitted up for the occasion. On the wall surrounding the building were the mottos "Welcome to Laurier," "Tariff for Revenue," "Lower Railway rates and Export Markets," and on the platform surrounding the speakers was an agricultural show of small dimensions; but embracing excellent specimens of the field, among which were sheaves of wheat, oats and barley, cabbages, turnips, beets, celery, tobacco and potatoes.

Mr. Oliver, M. L. A., occupied the chair and introduced the first speaker Mr. Fisher ex-M.P. for Brome.

Mr. Fisher, upon rising, first thanked the people of the Northwest for the reception given to the party and said he should be pleased, when he returned to Quebec to tell the people how the son of that province had been welcomed from one end of the country to the other. They had travelled through Ontario, Manitoba, British Columbia and now the Northwest Territories and were very much pleased with what they had seen of the country. He said it was no use his coming here to tell the farmers about their own country but he was glad to see on his way here, the conditions of wood water and soil to make a prosperous country. He was glad to see that the dairy interests were being engaged in throughout the district at such places as Red Deer and Innisfail. Some of the best butter that he had tasted while in British Columbia he was informed had come from Innisfail, and it would compare favorably with any butter in the world. Noticing the motto on the wall, he went on to speak upon the plank in the liberal platform of tariff for revenue as opposed to protection. In coming across the river he had not noticed any very tall chimneys and asked what special industry had protection built up here? This was decidedly an agricultural country at present, devoid of manufactures, thus, the western farmer was obliged to buy from the eastern manufacturer. When it is considered that 70 per cent. of the population is directly interested in the land, and only 5 per cent. in manufactures, he could not see that it was right to tax the many for the few. Coming from the east, it might seem strange to the people here that he was opposing such a policy; but he opposed it because protection would do us a great injury. Take as an illustration the duty placed upon agricultural implements which is 20 per cent. It was not always 20 per cent, having been recently reduced from 35 per cent; but in this reduction the duty on all agricultural implements has not been reduced. It is only on special lines, and the very things you require here and will require here, namely dairy utensils, are still charged a duty of 35 per cent. I give the government credit for what reductions they have made but they might have gone farther, for at the same time that a tariff was being framed at Ottawa, a tariff was being framed at Washington, and the United States offered the free entry of implements into the United States, if a similar concession was made by Canada for United States machinery. This he contended the government should have accepted; but instead of accepting that, they offered free trade in natural products, which exposed the farmer to all competition; thus selling the farmers or 70 per cent of the people, while protecting the manufacturers a mere fifth. In this northwest, so far from the eastern market, it is not likely that the farmers all purchase Canadian manufactured machines. Some are sure to be imported from the U. S. Those which are not pay 20 per cent into the pockets of the Massey Harris, Co. which now controls all the manufactures of agricultural implements in Canada. When this offer of reciprocity in implements with the United States was proposed, the Massey Harris Co., went to the Dominion government and induced them to retain the duty so that they could maintain a monopoly in the Northwest. He heard that the Massey Harris Co., was going to the United States to start a factory there. The reformers had been taunted about their disloyalty for proposing free trade but in this instance of the Massey Harris Co., we see where their loyalty is. It has been urged by some people that they are going there because the raw materials there are cheaper. If that is the case, then this is the greatest flaw in the N. P. itself. I believe that the tariff policy of this country should be dictated by the Canadian people. In England, the merchants are continually looking for new fields in which to place their wares, and parliament very largely takes action upon what the business men themselves have conceded to be most expedient. The English people would not ratify a parliament that made its trade policy independent of the people. Very lately a reciprocity treaty had been made with France, giving that country advantage over England. He had nothing to say against it if it was in the best interests of trade for the Canadian people; but he thought it a strange act of loyalty on the part of the government to make a treaty in favor of France as against England, when they denounced the liberal party as being disloyal for wanting freer trade relations with the United States. He closed his speech by asking those present to support Mr. Laurier.

Mr. Cowie, secretary of the Liberal association was then called upon to read an address of welcome from the liberals which read as follows:

To THE HONORABLE WILFRID LAURIER.

The Liberals of Edmonton are proud to welcome you at this stage of your western tour and beg to assure you that people of all shades of political opinion are pleased to see the interest which you have shown in the western country by your present trip, and are glad of the opportunity to meet and hear one who has been so long and honorably prominent amongst the statesmen of our country.

We have been glad to hear of your able championship of tariff reform. The Northwest is an agricultural country, and therefore its interests are necessarily best served by free trade. We credit to the able efforts of yourself and party the reductions of duty in favor of the Northwest made at last session of parliament, and although owing to the abundance of our natural resources, we in Edmonton do not feel the result as much as settlers in other parts of the country yet we have been substantially benefitted, and look to still further benefit from your able arguments in favor of a lower tariff.

We take the liberty to remind you that during the latter part of the day's railway ride, you saw for the first time a part of the Saskatchewan Valley—the great fertile belt—which was traversed from end to end by the Pacific Railway as projected and surveyed by the Government of the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie of which you were a member. We feel sure that you will be better satisfied than ever that no mistake was made by that government in locating the railway and we hope that it may yet be your fortune to be cause to be carried to completion along that line another railway that will give the Northwest the alway competition so absolutely necessary for its full development and rapid progress. In the meantime, we look to the liberal party chiefly for such present help as can be afforded against railway monopoly.

In conclusion, we may express the hope that you will find your tour both pleasant and profitable, and that at no distant day you may be able to use the information now being gained in the administration of the affairs of government instead of merely criticizing that administration. But we feel sure that whichever side of the House you may be on, or whatever the responsibility you may be called upon to fulfil, those responsibilities will be assumed with honor, ability and credit to yourself and in the best interests of the country.

With best wishes to Madame Laurier.
Frank. Oliver Chairman of their Committee.
A. Prince, Vice- " " "
I. Cowie, Secretary " " "

On behalf of the Liberals of Edmonton,
Edmonton, Alberta, N. W. T. September 20th, 1891.

At this stage of the proceedings Miss Clara Oliver presented the Hon. gentleman with a bouquet.

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier in reply to the address, thanked the liberals for the courtesy that had been shown to him and was pleased to see so many ladies on the liberal side for with the ladies on our side victory would sure to follow. He thanked them for the sentiments of the address and was pleased at the reference made to the late Hon. Alex. Mackenzie whose government determined that a line of railway should run through the fertile valley of the Saskatchewan. Travelling as he had done from one end of the Northwest to the other, he was more convinced than ever that the judgment of Alex. McKenzie more than vindicated. He was surprised at the modesty of the people here to think that they had not claimed to be in the "Garden of Canada." This was the only place he had touched where the people had failed to try and impress that upon him; but he thought this district far more deserving of the title than many places he had visited laying claim to such recognition. Five or six years ago he visited the county of Halton and the people there asked him what he thought of the county. Was it not the garden of Canada? Halton is a large fruit growing country and he could not but express the thought that it was indeed a fine country. Then he visited the county of York and there again he was told he was in the garded of Canada. When he visited Bruce he was likewise told that he was in the garden of Canada, and upon visiting Muskoka which is a very rocky country he was asked if that was not the garden of Canada? Upon replying that he thought he had seen better, his farmer friend asked him to look at a farm not very far distant; but which, being on the top of a hill, a stretch of the neck would not even allow him to see, then the farmer remarked "that sir is one of the best farms in Canada and don't you forget it." So it was in Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia they all claimed to be the garden of Canada; but here, when I see those large cabbages, the grains, that new lamp shade (laughter) and this coal, how is it that you too do not claim to be the garden of Canada? I have visited all over the Dominion and seen what the different districts have to show with my own eyes and now I come to this fair section where there are so many things that go to make a county prosperous, and you make no such claim. Here are gold, coal, timber, good soil and a fine river. Where are there such advantages combined as you have here? Perhaps this is the only portion of the Dominion where there are so many natural resources found together with such a heritage one would suppose they wanted for nothing; but I have been told that there is something that you do want. Only a short while ago, I came over the river in a scow (laughter), and I had it whispered to me that you wanted a bridge. He had heard that a party minister one year ago had promised that a bridge would be erected; but party promises were not always to be relied on. I cannot promise you anything as I am in the cold shades of opposition; but do not hope always to be there (applause). Let me say though that it would be a pleasure to me to see a bridge here. If you had a representative in parliament from this district, it would be his duty to impress upon the government the necessity of this bridge. You cannot afford to send delegation after delegation, to Ottawa which would be unnecessary if you had a member to represent you there, and though I cannot promise you a bridge, I can see Sir John Thompson and his colleagues in the House and can remind them again and again that there is no bridge at Edmonton, (loud applause). The speaker then spoke upon freight rates and tariff for revenue and said that he hoped for the assistance of the people of Edmonton and the great west at the next election. The conservatives, he said, are fast getting to the end of their tether. You would almost believe there were no liberals west of Winnipeg; but in British Columbia, although there were no liberals members, he found the people aroused to the necessity of a change and quite a revolution of feeling which indicated no uncertain sound. Although there were minerals, a rich soil and a salubrious climate, he did not think the people would say they had prospered as they might. The conservatives had said that with protection, cities would spring up and the farmers would have a home market. The policy was framed for the classes in Eastern Canada; but now that the west was growing and looking for markets to ship to, where could protection be said to give a market here? Protection had been instituted to protect infant industries but he objected to being taxed for infant industries as they never cease to be infants. He wished to leave the impression that he did not come as a demagogue to say that there should be no tax. Taxation was a necessary evil that must be maintained; but everyman had a right to his earnings. If he digs for coal, he has a right to what he earns or if he grows products he should receive their worth in money, and while taxation was necessary it should never be more than what the government required for the administration of the affairs of the country. He did not say that the tariff would be reduced to 17 per cent. as it was in the time of Mackenzie, as the national debt had increased and the succeeding government would be under obligations to provide for the payment of the interest, but it could be reduced to the extent of the twenty millions of dollars which now went into the pockets of the eastern manufacturers without being any loss to the revenue of the country. The matter of railway rates was also a question that affected our neighbors to the south; also it was evident that such a fertile valley as this must have more railway facilities to thoroughly develop it, a policy that would meet his accord and receive his assistance. By competition the freight rates would be sure to be lower. He was pleased with the general characteristics of this district, with its hills and dales for it reminded him of his own native province and was a change from the broad prairie. Mr. Laurier then went into statistics upon the Curran bridge scandal, the Cornwall canal affair and other acts of corruption and said that corrupt men might creep into any party; but when the party retained the members after charges had been proven against them, then it showed that they were not in it by mistake; but from choice. After referring to the examples set by Alex. Brown, Alex. Mackenzie and Edward Blake, he closed an eloquent speech by thanking the audience for their cordiality and hearing and resumed his seat amidst prolonged applause.

Mr. Fraser of Guysborough, N. S., was the next speaker and spoke upon the Langevin affair in which he said that the contract was one of building a harbor and an esplanade under two different contracts; the contractors took the two contracts and by deepening the earth out of the harbor on to the esplanade the one work completed the other so that they got double pay for the one work. He said the government was one of commissioners. Anything that comes up—a commission. People drink, must have a commission to see whether they do drink or not and to what extent. You are perhaps one who signed a petition for the reduction of freight rates. What is their answer? Commission! Commission! We must have a commission and Angers and Foster were sent through the country to enquire whether there was reason for the complaint and returned with the statement that there was no dissatisfaction. It had been said of Mr. Angers that while holding an investigation at a mining town, where farming was not carried on and where the miners were complaining about the tax on mining machinery, that Mr. Angers could not answer them; but having one story only, he advised them to go into mixed farming. Mr. Fraser made a lengthy and excellent speech closing with the remarks that the Northwest was the hope of the country.

After the band had played the national anthem and cheers had been given for the Queen and Mr Laurier, the meeting dispersed

GENERAL NEWS.

Hon. T. Mayne Daly is likely to receive a B. C. judgeship.

In response to a requisition signed by 128 electors, Mr. Leo Gaetz, of Red Deer has decided to run for the local house.

Mr. D. L. Scott Q. C., of Regina is the probable successor to the Alberta judgeship, left vacant by the deeply lamented death of Col McLeod.

The Canada Gazette contains an application from the Calgary Irrigation company to divert the water from the Elbow river over 45,000 acres of land adjoing it.

THE Edmonton exhibition cars are now being unpacked by the C. P. R. land department employees, the second one arriving on Saturday. It contained wheat and barley in the straw 5 feet 6 inches high, oats 6 feet, rye, vetches, pea vine and other splendid samples of this fertile district.—Free Press.

The Langdon, N.D., Democrat says: "Gabriel Dumont, the veteran half-breed who obtained so much notoriety during the Reil rebellion of 1884, was in the city last Monday. When questioned as to the truth of the report that has been published in the daily papers stating that he had recently been engaged in stirring up the Indians of the Northwest to another rebellion, he emphatically denied the story and said it was upwards of a year since he had seen any of the roving red men of the Northwest. He is at present visiting old friends near Olga."

FORT QU'APPELLE, Sept. 18.—Tom Tamack, an Indian of Pasqua's reserve, shot fatally another Indian of this reserve named Josiah Maloney, while both were at File Hills reserve on Saturday night. Dr. Hall was summoned, but the Indian died before he arrived. The police were also notified and they are on the lookout for the murderer, who is still at large. It is expected that it is only a matter of time before he is caught, being well known to the police, having at different times been in their employ as scout. Tamack's photograph is also in their possession, having been very fond of having it taken. It is said he has made for the United States boundary.
